All questions concerning designs and materials of dresses should be addressed to the Fashion Editor of The Evening World. No patterns for designs in this column can be obtained, but with the description furnished it is a simple matter to work out patterns.

DESCRIPTIONS.

The dress on the first figure is of fine checked or striped chiffon voile, trimmed with Venice lace banding over the shoulders and across the front of the waist. Blacked in oblong place by narrow Val insertion. Lace edging is gathered around the outer edge, also on each edge of the Venice banding on the kimono sleeve, while dotted net forms a yoke with high collar and small under cuffs. The skirt, slightly empire, is gathered about the waist enough to give proper fullness over the hips and is trimmed with a wide band near the bottom, finished on the upper and lower edges with a shirring of lace, and composed of alternate white and black stripes. Venice lace and dotted net, blacked off by rows of narrow Val insertion. A crush belt of Helen pink satin forms each end in the back, and with a hat of cream colored straw, trimmed with black velvet ribbon and a large pink rose trailing from the right, completes the effective costume.

The other dress is of white lingerie or dimity combined with embroidered all-over, which is used in the round yoke on the back of the waist and in the front between the inserted pieces of fine tucking which are defined by Cluny insertion continued from around the yoke. The skirt has a band of the all-over on the bottom below the Cluny insertion which defines the inserted tucked pieces, and is also used higher up on the skirt between pointed rows of the insertion which continue from the belt line. The sleeves are edged with a band of the all-over which also forms a belt, finished on each side with Cluny insertion. A small hat of white straw, with a large bright blue bow on the back, trimmed with a single pale pink rose on the side front, gives the necessary touch of color.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

Dear Fashion Editor: Will you kindly tell me how I can make into dresses some silk crepe? Am a working girl and want the dresses to wear to parks in the evenings. I have five yards each of golden brown, shell pink and Copenhagen blue—all twenty-seven inches wide. I am eighteen years old and don't wear my dresses very full. How shall I trim them? L.H.A.

I should advise all of them to be simple. The brown could have revers of heavy cream lace, which form a deep point in the back, edged with brown satin if you like. A deep yoke could be of plain cream net, also small undergarments. The skirt could be tucked around the hips with a deep seam in the bottom, having a fold of brown satin at the top. A crush belt of the satin, with a large hat bow in the back, would complete it. You could wear amber beads with the dress. The shell pink could be made with an empire waist and a fichu of cream point d'esprit with a fold of the material on the edge. A puffing of the net could trim the sleeves, and one or two bands of it inserted in the skirt. Finish the belt line with a silk cord. Make the bias with three deep tucks in the skirt at equal distances apart, served with French knots. Finish the sleeves with a tuck and French knots, and have heavy lace form deep shoulder bra-tolles edged with blue ball fringe. Finish the front of the square Dutch neck with narrow lace insertion.

Dear Fashion Editor: Will you please tell some fancy way of making a dress to use five yards of gold fringe? Would tan combined with pink be suitable? Am twenty-three years old, blond hair fair. You complete, weighs 180 pounds. How many other dresses would I need for summer?

The tan with pink would be pretty for your dress. Make it of crepe de chine, having a draped tulle coming from the back over the hips and down in the front almost to the bottom, where it cuts straight across, finished on the edge with the gold fringe. Have a separate panel in the back finished on the edge with the fringe, and the waist could be draped to one side with heavy lace forming a rever edged with a fold of pink satin and gold fringe. Make the sleeves straight kimono style, then serve them up the back a ways with the gold fringe attached and continuing around the bottom edge. A gold cord with tassels could define the waist line, and a large pink satin ornament could hold the cord on the side front.

Mrs. L. M.—This sample, I should think, would become a dress that could make it with the waist and sleeves in one, trimmed with a shaped band of white linen simulating a few arm-holes. Also trim the Dutch neck with a band of white, and have a band on the sleeves of it with two large lavender glass buttons on the back. Place three of these on the arm-hole band also, just above the bust line. Make the skirt plain, with a band of white net, the bottom trimmed at the front panel with four of the buttons.

HUNDREDS ARE DRIVEN OUT BY BROOKLYN FIRE.

Four Horses Perish in Stable Blaze, Which Threatens Many Frame Houses.

Several hundred persons were driven to the streets at 2 o'clock this morning by a $10,000 blaze near Pioneer and Van Brunt streets, Brooklyn. Four horses belonging to Olaf Clauson, No. 318 Van Brunt street, were burned to death. The fire started on the first floor of the two-story frame stable, No. 321 Pioneer street, in which the horses were kept and where $5,000 damage was done. It spread to No. 126, a two-story brick stable, and did $2,000 damage, and then jumped to the two-story frame storehouse, No. 277 Van Brunt street, the lower part of which was gutted, causing a loss of $1,000.

The fire was in a thickly settled locality containing many frame houses, and the reserves from the Hamilton avenue station ordered all the tenants from half a dozen or more.

WOMEN ARE EASY MARKS.

Judge Says So in Sentencing a Bigamist.

Women are easy marks, according to Judge Mulqueen, who had John Davenport before him today for sentence on conviction for bigamy. John married his first wife up the State and then came to New York and picked out a new one.

He got not less than a year and three months and not more than two years and three months at Sing Sing, and this judicial comment.

"Women are easy marks," they Davenport. They appear to be willing to marry any man who comes along, whether they know anything about him or not."

"Guess you're right, Judge," commented the prisoner.

SAVED BY GREASE ALONE.

Thugs' Victim Couldn't Sink in Chicago's Alleged Stream.

CHICAGO, May 24.—Soldiers' grease on the surface of Tubby Creek, long the target of reformers, saved the life of Joseph Mischnel thirty-eight years old.

Robbed, beaten into unconsciousness and cast into the creek by his assailants, Mischnel was unable for hours to get out, and finally drifted to the bank. Exposure brought on an attack of pneumonia, and he was removed to the County Hospital. The thieves got 40 cents.
